The Agriculture Services intends to train farmers in Agricultural Smart Practices by conducting the targeted 60 demos and 60 field days. In order to close up the knowledge gap, 42 field schools shall be operated and 42 lead farmers identified. All this will be made possible through training of field staff in Agricultural Smart Practice so as to equip them with sufficient knowledge of mechanisation, production, marketing and nutrition. As a buttress to the foregoing, a Market Information System will be developed in order to provide weekly market prices data and market bullentins.

Having experienced a severe drought during the 2023-2024 rain season, Agriculture Servces has included a key output to upgrade temporal weirs and establish small holders irrigation facilities.
